Co-Response and Alternative Policing Practices in Amherst

Panel presentation with

Earl Miller, Director, Community Responders for Equity, Safety and Service (CRESS)

&

Travis Marder, Amherst CSO Co-response Clinician

Amherst is the only community in the nation utilizing both a traditional co-response model in policing as well as an alternative dispatch department of unarmed civilians to address mental health challenges. This is the first time both approaches will be discussed together and the panelists will touch on both the collaboration and differences in these approaches at the intersection of behavioral health and public safety.

Join us for an exciting update and discussion.
